“ Robert was truly loved and respected like a father figure to both myself and Steve. He was always happy to see us and never failed to tell me he loved me. He lived a life to be envied he did more saw more than most folks. He did his best to council us on how to better understand and get along with dad which is a big challenge. He never cast blame or judged us when dad would go to him with our many screw ups. Robert knew our intentions were good and our hearts filled with love for our friends and family so he'd try to reason with dad which we'll always appreciate and remember. No matter how he felt about it he treated us like family. I'll never forget his smile when he would see us. He was a great man and loved his family and will be greatly missed by many.
